FIRST ANNUAL
CURRENT ISSUES
IN ANATOMIC
PATHOLOGY-1998

May 21-23, 1998

The Mark Hopkins Intercontinental Hotel
Number One Nob Hill
San Francisco, California

SUBJECTS: GENITOURINARY, GYNECOLOGIC,
NON-NEOPLASTIC LUNG, BREAST,
DERMATOLOGIC, AND HEAD-AND-NECK
PATHOLOGY AND IMMUNOHISTOCHEMISTRY

The Departments of Pathology,
Divisions of Surgical Pathology of the University of California
School of Medicine at San Francisco
Stanford University School of Medicine
Although clearly focusing on diagnostic surgical pathology, this annual course also addresses a wide range of topics in anatomic pathology and explores new and evolving areas in the diagnosis and analysis of disease. It aims to provide the latest practical and theoretical information that will aid the practicing pathologist in solving those problems most often encountered in the anatomic pathology laboratory.

This first annual UCSF/Stanford annual conference will span three days and overlap with one day of the Memorial Day weekend (Thursday, May 21 through Saturday, May 23, 1998). This will allow participants to combine a professional education experience with a holiday in San Francisco. Also participants will be able to register either for the entire three-day meeting or for any combination of individual one-day blocks. The first day, Thursday, will be devoted to genitourinary and gynecologic pathology, the second will be devoted to lung and breast pathology plus an update on immunohistochemistry, and the final day, Saturday, will be devoted to dermatology, head-and-neck pathology and individual case presentations. This modular design will allow each registrant to individually tailor this educational experience to match personal educational needs and planned activities in San Francisco.

The conference will be held at the Mark Hopkins Intercontinental Hotel, located on Nob Hill in San Francisco. As part of the program, lunch will be provided each day at the Top of the Mark restaurant on the top floor of the hotel. The Top of the Mark provides one of the most spectacular panoramic views of San Francisco and of the Bay in the entire region. There will be ample opportunity for informal discussions with the guest, Stanford, and UCSF faculty at these lunches, during morning and afternoon coffee breaks, and at the reception, which follows the lectures on the first day of the course. Evenings are free for participants to enjoy the city and bay area. The hotel is ideally situated for viewing and exploring San Francisco. The California Street Cable Car provides unique transportation to Chinatown and the Financial District, while the Powell Street Cable Car [one block from the hotel] travels to Union Square and Fisherman’s Wharf. Opportunities for shopping, dining, and entertainment abound. There will be a hospitality desk at the program to provide information and assistance.

ACCREDITATION

The University of California School of Medicine, San Francisco (UCSF) is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME) to sponsor continuing medical education for physicians.

The UCSF Office of Continuing Medical Education (OCME) certifies this program meets the criteria for 19.5 credit hours in Category 1 of the Physician’s Recognition Award of the American Medical Association and the Certificate Program of the California Medical Association.

EDUCATIONAL OBJECTIVES

Upon completion of this program, participants will be familiar with the latest practical and theoretical information for application to diagnostic problems in genitourinary, gynecologic, lung, breast, skin, and head-and-neck pathology, and newly described lesions.
