"Handicapped individual" means any person who (1) has physical or mental impairment which substantially limits one or more of such person's major life activities, (2) has a record of such impairment or (3) is regarded as having such impairment. GRADUATES OF FOREIGN MEDICAL SCHOOLS APPLICATION GUIDELINES

Thank you for your interest in the training programs at the University of California, San Francisco (UCSF). Before you may apply to our clinical training programs, however, it will be necessary for you to accomplish the following:

STEP 1

You must hold a current, valid certification from the Educational Commission for Foreign Medical Graduates (ECFMG). This is mandatory for appointment at this institution as well as for medical licensure in the State of California. You will need to contact the office directly to obtain an application and to arrange to take The United States Medical Licensing Examination (USMLE). After you pass the examination (Parts I and II), Clinical Skills Assessment and the English test, you will be granted an ECFMG certificate.

If you are not a citizen of the U.S. and you do not hold a Permanent Resident status, you will be required to secure the ECFMG-J1 visa to enter this institution for medical training. The University of California does not sponsor H1 visas for medical trainees.

STEP 2

After you have received your ECFMG certificate, and prior to applying for training at UCSF, you must contact the Medical Board of California (MBC). The address is on the next page. The MBC will require that you complete their application form and submit various documents and records along with a processing fee. Upon a successful review of your application credentials, your education, and your USMLE scores, the MBC will issue an "Applicant Evaluation of Status Letter". This letter enables you to apply for training at UCSF.

STEP 3

If you are applying for a first-year training position filled through the National Resident Matching Program (NRMP), it will be necessary for you to register with that organization. The address is listed on next page.
